CERAMIC ART

SOPHISTICATION IN THE SERVICE OF BEAUTY

The Maison's bathroom objects in biscuit porcelain are presented in a fresh light courtesy of a dark new colour that is deep and timeless. The new hue accentuates the clean lines of the various creations, signalling their refinement and simplicity. To realise these distinctive pieces, Diptyque has once again collaborated with Manufacture de Couleuvre, a company noted for its exceptional expertise in aspirational decorations and in colour.

Biscuit porcelain, with its velvety feel and matte finish, is mass-coloured by adding pigments directly to the paste. This delicate procedure has been mastered to perfection by Manufacture de Couleuvre, giving every piece depth and a permanent, intense colouring. The pieces are poured by hand, thereby preserving the slight roughness that gives each one its own individual character. The technique highlights the richness of the material and the subtlety of the craftsmanship involved in creating it.

The eye-catching, mellifluous curves of the Large Oval Tray offer the perfect space for scented hand and body washes, scented lotions or jewellery. The Oval Canister comes in two sizes, small and large, and was conceived for holding cotton wool, cotton buds and other beauty accessories, while the delicate, minimalist Oval Tumbler was designed to hold brushes, make-up brushes and other everyday objects. These biscuit porcelain objects, available in black or in white, can be combined over and over to bring visual and practical harmony to the bathroom. Each item features the Maison's emblematic censer motif in tone-on-tone codes.

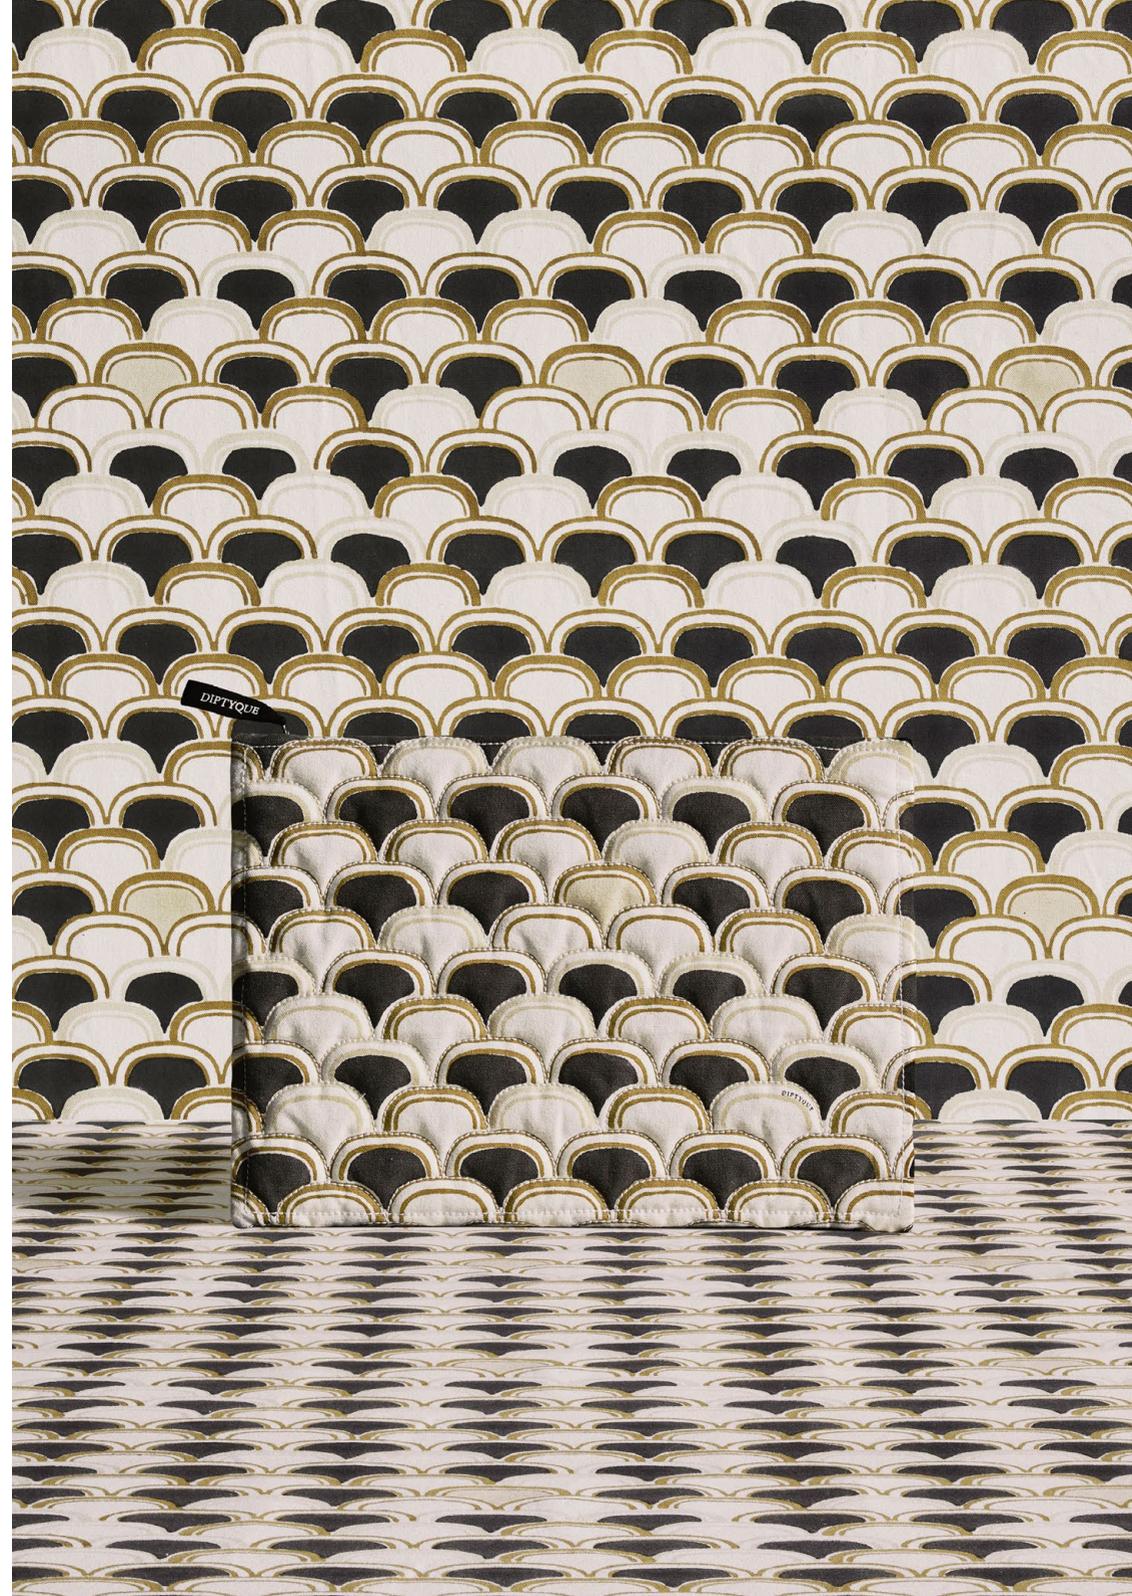

The same dedication to artisanal excellence is evident in Diptyque's new Panoramic Trays, which reinterpret the art of drawing through black and white illustrations inspired by three of the Maison's iconic scents: Eau Rose, Do Son and Philosykos. Crafted in Portugal by master artisans, these trays celebrate the spirit of Diptyque's founders, for whom each creation was a window into a world of emotion and memory. They have been carefully illustrated using chromolithography, and are ideal for holding bottles and the fragrance gestures that match their motifs. They can also be used as receptacles for candles, jewelry or other precious objects, adding a touch of timeless elegance to your room.

WOODBLOCK PRINTING: A TRADITIONAL TECHNIQUE REINVENTED
FOR YOUR DAILY RITUALS

Using the technique of woodblock printing, Diptyque has created a range of Textile Pouches and a Sleeve for Perfume and Accessories – perfect for carrying the Maison’s perfumed universe with you, wherever you go. Hand-crafted in India, these accessories help keep alive a time-honoured skill that calls for considerable expertise: each carefully sculpted woodblock is used to print delicate motifs on the fabric, layer by layer.

The motifs chosen – Le Redouté, Eau Rose and Jardin des Plantes – are visual echoes of the Maison’s olfactory creations, blending heritage with modernity. Le Redouté, an emblematic Diptyque motif, displays its hypnotic ovals; Eau Rose carries resonances of the graphic oval used for the perfume of the same name; and Jardin des Plantes celebrates the profound connection between Diptyque and nature.

The Pouches come in several sizes: Small is suitable for a single perfume bottle or hair mist, while the Medium version can accommodate a bottle, a cleansing gel and a hand and body lotion. The Sleeve is quite versatile: designed to hold a perfume bottle, it is equally well suited to spectacles or any number of other accessories.

THE OVAL POCKET MIRROR: ELEGANCE AND ECO-RESPONSIBILITY

And lastly, the Oval Pocket Mirror, now realised in a deep, dark new shade, exemplifies Diptyque's commitment to sustainable luxury. Each mirror is individually produced, produced by mixing recycled oyster shell fragments into a black mineral base to create a random pattern filled with contrasts. Designed by craftsmen in a Brittany workshop, this compact Mirror embodies the spirit of the Maison, combining a sophisticated aesthetic sensibility with environmental responsibility.

Each piece is an invitation to enrich your everyday life with the timeless elegance and poetry that are the signature of the Maison Diptyque.

Collection available in boutiques and online from January 2025.
